

Two Candidates Must Decide On One Board

by GLORIA DAVIS

Some elementary school board members seem to be thinking of making a try for the plateaus of higher learning.

Ed Haley, who is presently on the Dist. 34 Grade School Board and Jan Renney, who has also taken out a petition for her open seat on the Emmons Grade School Board, have both taken out papers to run for the Antioch High School Board.

Both will have to decide on one board or the other since no one can sit on two public school boards.

Tom Fisher, Antioch School Board member whose seat is not up for election, is also on the St. Peters School Board. Parochial schools do not come under the public school code.

Others taking out papers for the three open four year seats on the Board of Education of Antioch High School are Paul Ashley, former Lindenhurst village administrator, Rosemary Lips, Lindenhurst, Laurel Dahl, incumbent Frank Walsh and incumbent Michael Zeien.

Word is that long-time school board President Robert Lindblad has not taken out papers for reelection to his position. Reports have Lindblad running for a seat on the Regional Board of School Trustees, also a November election.

With three open seats on Dist. 34's Board of Education, only one person had taken out papers at press time.

"We might have to start advertising to get people out to run for the board," said Admin. Dr. Donald Skidmore.

The open seats are now held by Gayle Heath, Clint Glover and Garnet Carney.

Incumbents Jan Renney and Pamela Pierson, as well as John Petkus, Sandy Steffenburg and Jim Koppa have taken out petitions for the three open seats. Don Lessard holds the third seat.

See story inside for names of those who filed their petition by press time.

Mother Nature Treats Area Kindly In Deluge Of '87

Antioch and Antioch Twp. fared much better than its neighbors to the southwest when Mother Nature threw her tearful tantrums on Thursday, Friday and Sunday.

With five inches of rain coming down during Thursday night and Friday morning and another inch-and-one-half falling on Sunday, the village and the township only had minor damage.

According to Joe Huber, head of the village's public works department, "We were lucky, we seem to be able to handle that much water when it falls over that many hours."

He added that even Oakwood Knolls, known for years to flood at the slightest rainfall, was looking pretty good since the storm sewer construction had been finished.

Antioch Twp. Road Commissioner Mark Ring reports that the township is also in good shape.

"As far as I could see when we checked there were a few shoulders washed out and some standing water in yards for a short time, but outside of a few fallen tree branches, there were no big problems like there were after the rains last September," Ring added.

All of the lakes and creeks in the Antioch area are up to their banks and with rain predicted for the rest of the week only time will tell if Antioch will remain floodless.

To the north, over the border in Wisconsin, many Antioch residents attending the Kenosha County Fair in Wilmot, got rained on and there was a serious threat of tornados on Sunday, with funnel clouds sighted, but none materialized.

Antioch's Mayor Ray Toft had to cancel the big demolition derby planned for the Wilmot Speedway on Sunday evening because of the weather and mud.

To the south Lake Villa had some flooding and so did Lindenhurst with the rain hampering the fun at Lindenfest.

Further south and west, record rainfalls of over nine inches on Thursday and Friday saw the banks of the Des Plaines River and Salt Creek overflow with thousands left without utilities, hundreds of cars under water, and hundreds of people evacuated from their homes.

O'Hare Airport was hard hit on Friday and roads all over Chicago and the northwest suburbs were closed. At one time on Friday, the Kennedy Expressway had seven feet of water on it in spots.

Emmons, Teachers Set Agreement

Negotiations between the Emmons Grade School Board and the school's teachers' union ended last week when both sides came to a tentative agreement after three mediation meetings.

According to Admin. Jill Ballock, the contract agreed upon is a multi-year contract.

Both sides agreed not to release information on the contract's particulars until after the agreement is ratified by the entire school board and the teachers.

The teachers are expected to vote on the contract on Tuesday, Aug. 25, and the board will vote on the contract on Tuesday, Sept. 14.

Village OKs Sump Pump Crackdowns

by GLORIA DAVIS

The Antioch Village Board has voted to "come down hard" on violators of the sewer ordinance that continue to have their sump pumps connected to the sanitary sewer system.

"Such a repeated violation is against the law and those who continue to do so will face stiff fines," said Village Clerk Marilyn Sternbenz.

In the past, the village has had sporadic residential inspections and warned violators, but most have not been paying attention. The board decided on a serious future crackdown at its regular meeting on Monday.

In other action connected with the village's sewer system, after hearing a report on the infiltration of the sanitary sewers in Oakwood Knolls from Village Eng. John Bolt, the board voted to apply for a block grant to fund either splitting the sewers or fixing the old sewers to alleviate the sanitary sewer backup in the Knolls.

The board opened bids for the construction of the pedestrian crosswalk at the intersection of Rtes. 83 and 173.

Benson Electric of Waukegan had the low bid with $15,594; Virgil Cook and Son, DeKalbe bid $21,333 and Aldrige Electric, Libertyville, turned in a bid of $21,038. The bids were turned over to committee for consideration.

The board then took action on two controversial zoning requests, granting the Cunningham petition to build multi-family units on Anita St. and going along with the zoning board in denying the request of agent Michael Warren for a zoning change to allow a drive-through at T. S. Boogies restaurant on Rte. 83.

In separate action, the board stipulated that the Cunningham construction has to be started within a year's time.

In other action the board:

— hired Ron Nauman as new community service officer.

— hired Laurel Dahl to replace Garnet Carney as a secretary-clerk in the village office. Carney, who has worked in different capacities for the village for many years, is retiring.

— set opening of bids for 3,000 square feet of sidewalk repair throughout the village for 7:30 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 14.

Hallwas Family Sweeps Championship Awards

by CAROLYN HAMMOND
(312) 395-6081

As summer fades into oblivion, despite the heat and rain, it's parents time to sing as their offspring return again to the "hallowed halls of learning."

"School days, school days, Good old Golden Rule days, the Lake County Fair for projects in stitchery, mosaics, ceramics and bowling. Her stitchery project, an original design of a four-foot square Monopoly board, was chosen for exhibition at the Illinois State Fair. There it received a superior rating and award for his woodburning project. He was also selected to exhibit his mosaics project in Springfield where it received a second-place rating.

Aaron Van Patten, a seven-year member, exhibited a plaster-craft project at the Lake County Fair and earned a Grand Champion ribbon also. Renee Hallwas' calligraphy project rated a Grand Champion award for the nine-year member. (That's really a talented family!)

Unfortunately though, woodburning, plastercraft and calligraphy are considered county projects only and cannot be selected for state fair competition. Bet they would have done well there! Congratulations to you all! You have made yourselves and Antioch proud.

Enjoy the rest of the summer, folks. Fall activities will soon get us "back on the merry-go-round."

Notes & News

Reading and writing and 'rithmetic, Taught to the tune of the hickory stick..."

Hickory what? most of today's youngsters would ask, but the Golden Rule is still taught in school these days as children learn how to get along with each other.

The hickory stick is pretty much a relic of the past, except in rare cases where it's been replaced by a wooden paddle. We are most fortunate that we have such good schools in our town and surrounding areas; let's all help them maintain their excellence.

Maintaining excellence is part of the goal of the Sequoit Warriors 4-H Club of Antioch, lead by Carolyn Van Patten, as its members brought their projects for judging and exhibition to the Lake County Fair and then on to the Illinois State Fair in Springfield.

Deanna Hallwas, a seven year member, received four Grand Champion awards at nomination for display in the Illinois Room of the U.S. Capitol in Washington, D.C. for one year, from September 1987 to August 1988.

Only eight projects from the entire state of Illinois will be so honored. Selection will be made on Aug. 20 from those nominations submitted. Nice job, Deanna! Here's hoping!

Other group members also scored highly. David Hallwas, a nine-year member, received a Grand Champion and "Best of Show"

Wife Says Lights Were On

Debbie Campbell, wife of Lake Marie boat crash victim, Craig Campbell, called the Antioch Reporter to object to the article claiming that unconfirmed reports had witnesses saying that the lights on the Campbell's pontoon boat came on seconds before a power boat driven by Tim Palm crashed into it.

"The light was right above my head, I know it was on all the time," said Debbie Campbell.

She added that to her knowledge no witnesses claiming that the lights were not on have come forward.

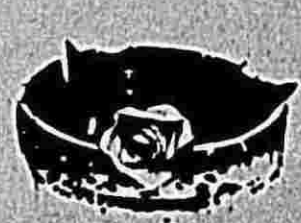

According to Lake County Coroner Barb Richardson's office, a date for the inquest into Campbell's death has not been set yet.

Ocean Spanning Friendship

Yugoslavian Girl's Yen, Chicken Mc Nuggets

by GLORIA DAVIS

"It was a case of an immediate chemistry between us," said Angie Maras, of her unlikely friendship with a 14-year-old girl from behind the Iron Curtain in Yugoslavia.

Last spring, Angie and her husband Dan, who has relatives in Yugoslavia, made their fourth visit to that country.

"It's a beautiful country," said Angie, "and despite the fact that it is one of the Iron Curtain countries, you're free to go anywhere you want."

She and her husband have become very fond of the Slavic country because, "it's one of the most progressive countries in Europe."

It was while the Marases were on a boat ride to the island of Brioni that they met Zdenka Klapez whose home town is Sinj. She was on a class trip.

Although Dan can speak some Yugoslavian, Zdenka (pronounced Denka) was asked to do some interpreting for the Marases who were accompanying a priest carrying a donation to the Franciscan Fathers from St. Jerome's Parish in Chicago.

Angie still remembers how the young girl's charming smile drew them to her.

During their visit, Angie and Dan decided to see if Zdenka would like to visit the United States. "We wanted to share our country with her," said Angie.

"When Father Mario said we're going to America, I was so excited," recalls Zdenka.

So after returning to this country, the Marases went about completing the paper work necessary and Zdenka arrived on July 20 for a two month stay.

Zdenka, who has three sisters and two brothers, has decided that her favorite place in the U. S. so far is Great America and, just like most American girls, she loves Chicken McNuggets.

She also loves American music and, being able to speak three languages (her own, English and French), it is not unusual that she knows all the English lyrics to her favorites.

She is due to enter high school in Europe this fall but since her stay will overlap the start of school she will be starting a little late.

Angie has arranged for a Yugoslavian Exchange Student living in Lindenhurst to take Zdenka under her wing for a visit to Antioch High School after school starts to give her a taste of American classes.

Zdenka says that she feels that the American high school girls are more mature than her European peers, "we are more protected," she adds.

Very few Slavic girls have summer jobs and most do not even go into the work place until they are 20 years old.

The pretty girl that looks a little like a young Ingrid Bergman, looks older than her 14-years, and brains go along with this natural beauty. She is first in her class and wants to end up in the computer field.

With a few get-acquainted trips outside of Lake County in the hopper, Zdenka is spending her summer helping Angie with her job as head of public relations at Hawthorn Center, doing a little babysitting for the family, experiencing as much of the United States as possible and, all in all, having a very unforgettable vacation.

Nature Sending Messages

After a record August drenching, the second rainfall of record proportions in less than a year, Mother Nature has left an indelible message: in this locality we are susceptible to periodic flooding of devastating dimensions.

Lake County escaped flooding injury Aug. 14 while suburban areas to the south relived nightmares of the Great Flood of '86, but the message was driven home once again that building and developing practices have left vast suburban areas vulnerable to high water damage.

Environmentalists and open space advocates grimly remind that flooding and inconvenience are the price society pays when the laws of physics and nature are ignored. It makes no difference that Gov. Thompson can come in and declare damaged territory a disaster area. Every flood leaves scars that can never be repaired.

The periodic flooding, which seems to be increasing with alarming frequency, underscores the need on the part of officialdom and the public alike to be ever wary of storm water removal needs of our community and neighboring areas. It should be automatic that storm water be considered in every building project, no matter how small. Yes, the ordinances are on the books, but they are not always enforced. Nature keeps sending messages, but is anyone listening?

Samantha Goes To Work

"Samantha," a huge dredge named for the daughter of Gov. and Mrs. James Thompson of Illinois, now is on its shake-down runs for the beginning of a comprehensive dredging program in the Chain O' Lakes.

The dredge is being operated by the Chain O' Lakes Fox River Waterway Management Agency, which was formed by voters three years ago to facilitate modern water resource management programs and rehabilitate one of the state's most used and abused recreation areas.

Samantha will stand as a dramatic symbol of what a public agency can do for public good when the proper tools are available. Officials on hand for a christening ceremony, hailed the event as historic for the Chain, as, indeed, it is. It was fitting that Margaret Tuck, Lake County's No. 1 ambassador of tourism, cracked the traditional bottle of champagne across the hull of the dredge, assisted by Shirley Trinski. Mrs. Tuck has long been a champion of the Chain and its 64,000 acres as one of the state's major recreation areas. Until the establishment of the Water Management Agency, Chain O' Lakes needs were largely ignored by state officials.

That has all changed now. The dredge was secured through a state grant. State officials are supporting efforts of the non-tax supported agency to secure necessary permits for dredging and silt-storage as work moves into high gear to deep channels for better and safer boating, and erosion and flood control.

State Sen. Jack Schaeffer, the father of the Water Management Agency, put the role of Samantha into perspective by declaring, "We need a continuing dredging program so we will not lose this waterway." It was also brought out at the christening ceremony that boaters are contributing significantly to agency income. Next year fees derived through the sale of permit stickers are expected to exceed $350,000. The agency will also be a conduit for state grants.

Work being performed by Samantha now and in the future should erase all doubt about the need for a statutory agency. Samantha's christening was a red-letter day not only for the Chain O' Lakes but the entire state.

Early Start For Safety

Illinois Sec. of State Jim Edgar is on to something with his newly launched youth highway safety initiative—the idea of ingraining good safety habits in children long before they become eligible to drive.

Teaching safety is too late when youths start driver education in high school, according to Edgar. He's absolutely right. As anyone who ever has studied psychology knows, children have most of their life's habits absorbed by the time they are six or seven. Add this to the chilling statistics of highway fatalities the past several years and you understand why it's not too early to start teaching driver safety with the tricycle set.

Last year 324 teens and children died on Illinois roads compared to 285 in 1985. Of the total, 72 were pedestrians, 21 were bicyclists and 231 were drivers or passengers in motor vehicles.

For toddlers, a costume character, Pandi Panda, has been created to help children learn safety through the use of a coloring book and visits to a child-size village that will be set up in schools and shopping malls. For bike riders there will be a new "Rules of the Road" booklet, expansion of the Sec. of State bicycle safety rodeo program, and intensified education. For teens, there will be a new "Don't Drink and Drive" program relying heavily on safe driving for celebrations like homecoming, prom and graduation, plus teen leadership conferences.

Edgar noted that approximately half of the 235 teen deaths involved alcohol. The secretary feels that early education is a better, more effective way to improve traffic safety than getting tough with drunk drivers and other law breakers, which is only part of the picture. Edgar is to be lauded for the new initiative. We'd like to add that there's a part for all of us to play in helping young people in our community learn and appreciate improved safety habits.

4-Hers Become Top Diplomats On Japan Trip

by BILL SCHROEDER

On the grassroots level—thanks to two Lake County 4-H'ers—relations with Japan have never been better. Hang diplomatic relations and unfair trade!

Stacie Botimer and Dan Summers stepped off a jet at O'Hare Airport Thursday morning, dog-tired after a long flight from the Orient, but brimming over with enthusiasm about friendship with Japan.

The two students were part of a delegation of 13 4-H members from Illinois and Michigan who spent a month in Japan in an exchange program initiated two years ago when a group of Japanese youths visited America.

Stacie, 18, a resident of Gurnee and a second year student at College of Lake County, took along a supply of 4-H souvenirs and candy to hand out. She also delivered a letter of greeting to her host family from Mayor Richard Welton of Gurnee.

Dan, 15, a resident of Lake Villa and a student at Antioch High School, was prepared to talk sports with his fellow Japanese teenagers—baseball fanatics.

The two long distance travelers said they want to rest up before relating their experiences to other 4-H'ers and friends. Sounds like a trip of a lifetime and a cracking good idea to foster good foreign relations.

EXTENDING SUMMER—Ed Jahneke, a Lakeland who pulled stakes for the Sun Belt a few years ago, responded to an editorial plea on this page for making summer last longer.

"Pack your bags and move to the Deep South," advises Ed, formerly of Antioch and now a resident of Foley, Ala. "You'll get more hot weather than you bargained for. I'll guarantee that."

Even in a land of nearly eternal summer, Jahneke mentioned that he misses the change of seasons and snow. Ed even has an answer for that: "Move back north." And believe it or not, he's even giving thought to that. As northerners, Ed and his wife, Del, were well-known American Legionnaires.

ONE MAN'S FAMILY—Pop didn't miss the winks and side-long glances when he took his position at second base for the annual company picnic ball game. With three hits in five times at bat, plus a couple of RBIs, not to mention a successful second base slide made almost sensational by wet grass, proved that pop doesn't have to hang up his spikes—at least this year. Next day, though, aches and pains had me wondering if it wouldn't be better to confine my athletic activities to pinch hitting or coaching in 1988.

St. Therese Program Gives Scholars Career Direction

Laboratory workers and employees in other departments at Saint Therese Medical Center have had the opportunity to share their work experience with two scholarship winners of the American Cancer Society Summer Scholarship Program.

The two students were Matthew Vlies, a junior at Round Lake High School, and Jennifer Bellman, a senior at Waukegan East High School. These two students were chosen from a group of 38 applicants to learn at Saint Therese through the scholarship program.

The two students had a busy schedule at the Medical Center, visiting and experiencing the work that goes on in the laboratory, as well as in over ten other ancillary departments. Both students felt the experience gave them a new insight to the various jobs that go on at Saint Therese.

"They seem to be highly motivated students. The fact that they were here instead of enjoying the summer vacation is commendable," said Romeo Sobrepena, laboratory supervisor.

The scholarship program is sponsored by the Cancer Society and receives cooperation from six other Lake County hospitals in addition to St. Therese.

To be eligible for the scholarship, students had to be a sophomore or junior at application time and must be non-smokers. This year, 14 students were allowed to participate in the scholarship program that may effect their decisions about a future in medicine.

"The program provides student with an appreciation of life sciences intended to help them determine whether they want a vocation in the medical and paramedical field," said Doris Richter, chairman of the Lake County Public Education Committee.

Matthew and Jennifer felt the experience at Saint Therese has had a positive effect on their future plans.

"It has helped me decide on a career. I want to go into physical therapy," said Matthew. "It was worth a month out of summer to go to Saint Therese and learn."

The experience was a positive one for the employees at Saint Therese as well. "It was refreshing to have these students here at the medical center," said Subrepena. "They provided a challenge to us, and since they are having fun, we are having fun too."

Waldeck Brings Kinetic Exhibit To CLC Gallery

The kinetic art of Steve Waldeck will be featured at the College of Lake County Community Gallery of Art from Aug. 28 through Nov. 4.

The exhibit will open with a reception for the artist on Friday, Aug. 28, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the gallery, on the Grayslake campus. The public is invited, and there is no admission fee for the opening or the exhibit.

As a kinetic artist, Waldeck experiments with a variety of materials and incorporates motion, light and sound into his art. This abstract art form developed as artists sought a contemporary impressionism that would embody the spirit of today's technological world.

Waldeck spent his early life as an artist making abstract paintings, sculpting found objects, and experimenting with moving sculpture. He received his BFA from Ohio University in 1965, and won the Eisner prize at University of California at Berkeley for his graduate work in kinetic art. His minimal style sculpture, using electronically programmed light and sound, earned critical acclaim.

In 1969, Waldeck came to Chicago and established an area of experimental media called Kinetics and Electronics within the Sculpture Dept. at the Art Institute of Chicago. He is responsible for molding programs at the institute into the only curriculum that offers extensive study and development of experimental media and kinetic art.

Later, Waldeck's work took a more personal, surrealist direction with greater use of lights and sounds. Today his work may range from a painting to an architectural false space with moving objects and naturalistic sounds. Waldeck has shown his art nationally and has placed work in many private corporate collections. He is also a co-founder of the Chicago Sculpture Society.

Hours for the Community Gallery of Art, located at the College of Lake County, 19351 Washington St. in Grayslake, are 8 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Fridays. Call (312) 223-6601, ext. 618, for weekend hours.

American Sunset

This assemblage of found objects has kinetic activity in the sequencing sun rays that rise and set, accompanied by erratically pulsing light. The 1980 work of Steve Waldeck is just one of many to be exhibited in art gallery of College of Lake County.

Lake County Needs Foster Parents

There is a critical shortage of foster parents in Lake and McHenry counties.

Each child placed in the custody of Central Baptist Family Services deserves the opportunity to go to a foster home where he or she can realize the benefits of living in a healthy home environment.

Children in foster care deserve loving foster parents who can provide structure, guidance and good role models. Many children are in foster care a few days, some a few weeks or months, while others may spend several years in foster care. Regardless of how long the child remains in foster care he or she deserves nothing less than the best.

Anyone considering foster parenting can plan to attend a special orientation program on Tuesday, Sept. 1 from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

This orientation program is designed to provide an introduction into the world of foster parenting. Attendance does not obligate anyone to become a foster parent.

Space is limited, therefore reservations are required. For more information and reservations call Central Baptist Family Services, Lake Villa at (312) 356-1021 and ask for our Resource Dept.

Welfare Reform: Getting People Into Workforce

by KAREN WILTBERGER

More than 3,000 families in Lake County will pick up welfare checks this month. Most of those checks will amount to $381 each and support a young mother with two children.

Along with that check, the typical welfare family in Lake County will use a green card for free medical care and qualify for subsidized housing and food stamps.

To beat the welfare system, the mother would need to earn $6 to $8 an hour, said State Sen. Jack Schaffer (R-Crystal Lake), sponsor of welfare reform legislation aimed to break the cycle of public aid and poverty.

The welfare-to-work legislation, signed into law July 23 by Gov. James Thompson, provides welfare recipients with incentives to work and clamps down on parents who owe child support.

Schaffer said he expects welfare recipients in Lake and McHenry counties to respond favorably to the legislation because jobs are available here. But, he said, it is no secret that some recipients will still resist the opportunities.

According to public aid records, almost $1 million in public aid was poured into Lake County in June alone.

Under the new laws, the state will continue some public aid benefits to welfare recipients who leave the poverty cycle and enter the workforce.

The state will provide for up to six months day care service and medical benefits for Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) and General Assistance (GA) families who become ineligible for assistance. The laws also allow other income supplements while recipients adjust to the workforce.

Schaffer estimates it will take three to four years for the welfare reform programs to save state dollars. Most people don't understand that the majority of welfare dollars in Illinois pay the medical bills of senior citizens, he said.

The emphasis of this legislation, Schaffer said, is to change the ways of longtime welfare recipients between the ages of 18 and 65, who come from families who have been on the welfare system sometimes as long as six generations.

Laurie Cox, director of the West Lake County District Community Action Project, said she sees about 50 people monthly who seek emergency assistance available once a year. Though some recipients are in a one-time crisis, the majority are healthy people caught up in the public aid system, she said.

The agency sees the same families and sees them often, Cox said. "A lot of them don't go back to work because they don't have a vision. They don't have a goal."

Cox said that applications for mortgage assistance grants show that some families have $20 left at the end of the month, which is enough to convince her they are earning cash by babysitting and other under-the-table jobs.

"Public aid is secure and they can get the extra cash, but they're not going to go anywhere is what I'm trying to enforce," Cox said.

"It all comes down to social environment, social psychology, and to fight that in phenomenal," Cox said.

A smooth transition into the workforce, according to people who work within the public aid system, is a necessary step to pull off more people from welfare.

The largest welfare-work program in the nation is Project Chance, a $41 million welfare-to-work program in Illinois, is already being used to make that transition.

In Lake County, 758 public aid recipients were required to participate and 803 recipients voluntarily participated in Project Chance during June, 1987.

Project Chance statistics show that 70 percent of its clients placed in job programs are still employed by the end of the year. The new legislation provides grant diversion programs that will encourage employers to hire Project Chance participants by allowing a portion of a recipient's grant to be used as a wage subsidy.

Another emphasis of Project Chance is education. After an initial eight-week Job Search Session to learn basic job-seeking skills, participants who lack basic skills are encouraged to take part in GED courses, adult education, vocational training or work experience programs.

In a joint effort with the Project Chance, the College of Lake County offers such programs to public aid recipients. The college also offers short-term courses that provide skills for jobs that pay more than minimum wage.

Schaffer said the state is using new techniques to locate missing parents, including voter's lists, Secretary of State records and employment records. Also, states are considering the implementation of a national network to locate parents who leave the state where they owe support.

Don Pittman, public aid officer of the Dept. of Public Aid, said one of the main reasons why women and children are on child support is because fathers leave and don't provide support.

"What is more devastating to a child than to have his parent out there who doesn't give him the time of day and doesn't support him," Pittman said.

The child support laws have been flaunted, Pittman said, and this legislation is to tighten the belt on those who owe money under court orders.

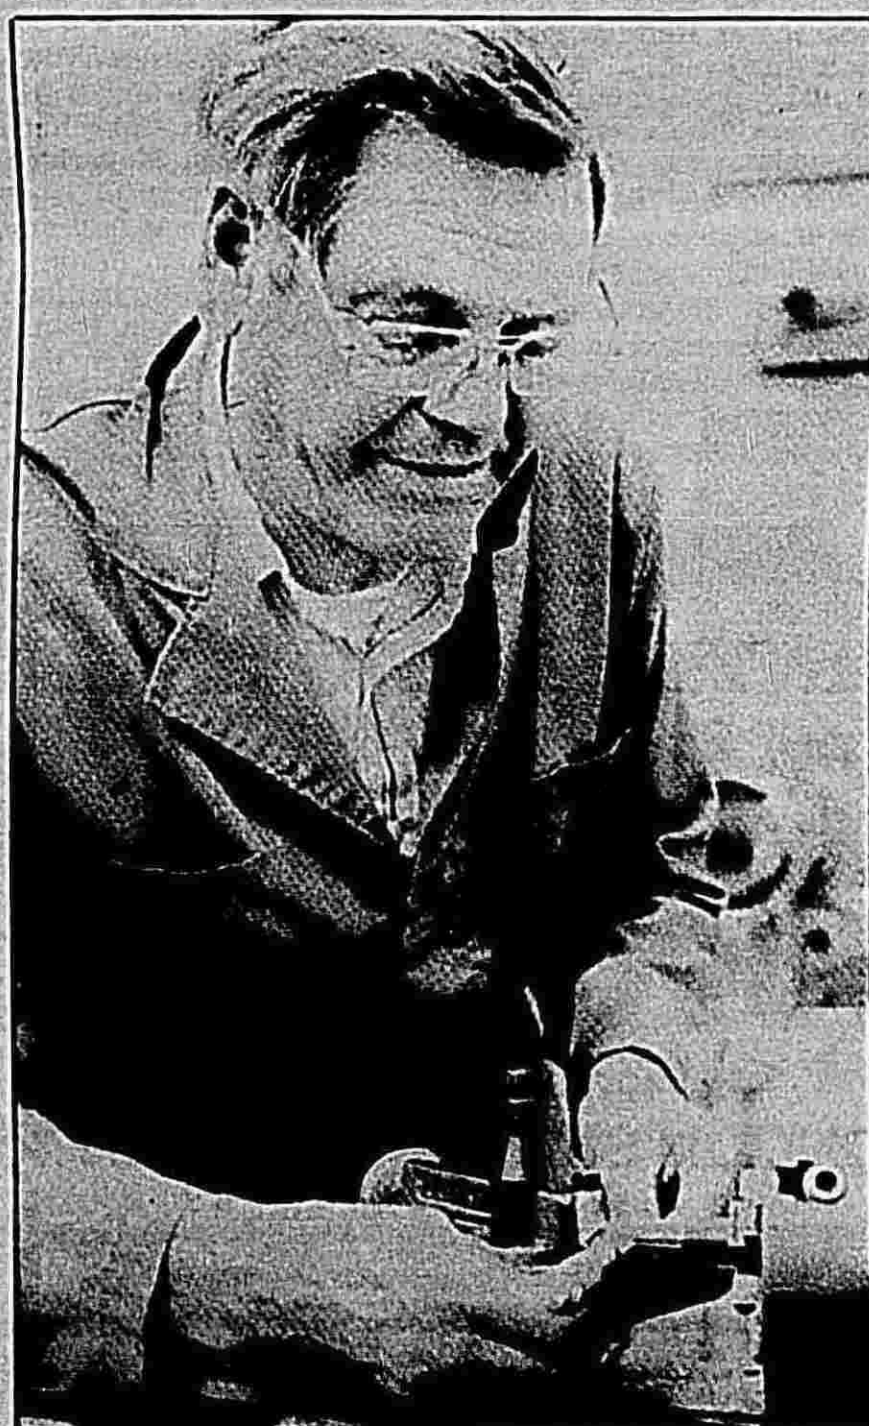

Schaffer said state legislators of diverse views on public aid—from raising public aid payments to halting programs altogether—were overwhelmingly in favor of the welfare reform package.

"We have to get in and break this cycle," Schaffer said. "Our society cannot support it anymore."

DOCTOR'S FORUM

The state of Illinois requires that physical examination be done for school children entering kindergarten or first grade, fifth grade and high school. It further mandates that these school children comply with the immunization schedule required by the Illinois Department of Public Health.

Whenever the state makes a law regarding the health care of children, one has to ask at least two questions: Is it reasonable and is it practical?

How reasonable is this law? From my point of view it is very reasonable. In order to prevent the spread of a communicable disease in the community, there must be a certain percentage of the people who are immune to the disease either by immunization or previous illness. I do not know of any better way of accomplishing this and at the same time protect the health of school children.

How practical is it to comply with the law? There are a sufficient number of physicians in the community who can provide the services without the inconvenience of traveling long distance to obtain them. For those who cannot afford the services of physicians in private practice they can go to the Health Department at minimal or no cost.

The immunization required includes protection from polio, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, mumps, measles, german measles (rubella). Thanks to the availability and affordability of these immunizations most parents have never seen polio and diphtheria in their whole life.

During the physical examination many asymptomatic illnesses are discovered. The illnesses commonly found during these examinations are visual and hearing problems, skin diseases, urinary tract infections, anemia, hypertension and diabetes to name a few.

The early detection and treatment of these disorders and completion of immunizations provide a healthy and better learning environment for children.

Volunteers Take Note Of Needs

The Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), is always looking for volunteers for its many programs, including those listed below.

-Libraries: There are several area libraries that are in need of volunteers for telephone/receptionist, filing, shelving and general library clerk duties.

-Nursing homes: Area nursing homes are in need of volunteers as friendly visitors to residents. A friendly visitor would keep the resident company, and could also aid in communication to out-of-town friends and relatives.

There are several nursing home requests for volunteers that have arts and craft talents. Residents enjoy knitting, crocheting, games and several are involved in volunteer work themselves.

-Typists: A need in Lake County agencies for typists. The hardest volunteer for most agencies to find is one that is willing to keep sharing their typing experience. There are a wide range of agencies for you to choose from.

-Bi-monthly newspaper: There is a need for one or two volunteers to become involved in newsletters that are designed for seniors. Aid in selections of articles that would be interesting to our senior population.

ARMs Gain Strength Among Public Interest

by GARY S. MEYERS

Home buyers once looked warily at adjustable-rate mortgages, like one looks at a new-model car with features that no one understands. But now that ARMs have been successfully test driven by numerous buyers, they are growing in popularity.

Adding to the drawing power of adjustable-rate loans is the increasing availability of a convertible option, which allows buyers to protect themselves from rising rates by changing their ARMs into fixed-rate loans.

When interest rates on fixed-rate mortgages jumped this spring and rates on ARMs remained stable, home buyers were quick to react. In March, 22 percent of the loans closed were ARMs. By July, that figure had jumped to 50 percent, according to the Federal Home Loan Bank, the federal agency that regulates savings institutions.

"Generally when fixed mortgage rates are perceived as high, ARMs are more appealing," said Richard Peach, senior economist with the Mortgage Bankers Assn. in Washington. "Today, more home buyers feel that fixed-rate loans higher than 10 percent are just too high."

But a rate spread of almost two percentage points between 30-year fixed mortgages and one-year ARMs is not the only reason why more home buyers are opting for adjustable-rate mortgages.

Qualification requirements are generally lower for ARMs. For some buyers who might not otherwise qualify for a conventional mortgage, an ARM is a viable and affordable alternative. Some buyers can qualify for a more expensive home than with a fixed-rate mortgage.

For borrowers who plan to move within three to five years, an ARM that does not adjust for the first five years is often the most inexpensive way to finance a new home.

Also, additional safety features and increased standardization have helped boost the popularity of adjustable-rate loans.

"Consumers, lenders and traders in the secondary market all are becoming more accepting of ARMs," said Glenn Z. Reynolds III, senior vice president of residential lending at Inland Mortgage Corp. in Tulsa, Okla. "Fewer whistles and bells mean a more uniform, reliable and often cheaper loan."

For those home buyers who are interested in an ARM, but concerned about possible interest rate hikes, a more flexible conversion option is now available from lenders nationwide.

In the past, borrowers could convert their ARMs to fixed-rate loans on the third or fifth anniversary of the loan. Now, in some cases, they can convert as soon as one month after closing, or as late as the fifth year of the loan. Additional fees or points, as well as the scheduling of the conversion times are determined by the lender.

More than 100 lenders nationwide are now offering borrowers the option to convert an ARM to a fixed-rate mortgage any time between 13 and 60 months after the loan has been made. The option is part of a mortgage program recently approved by the Federal National Mortgage Assn., which buys mortgages from lending institutions.

At the time of conversion, borrowers pay an additional one point on the original mortgage amount and a service fee of not more than $250.

"A conversion option is especially good for home buyers who normally distrust ARMs in favor of less risky fixed-rate mortgages," said Jeanette Good, vice president of underwriting at Sterling Savings and Loan in Irvine, Calif.

Under Sterling's "Trustable Adjustable" program, borrowers can convert their loans any time after the first month, on up to three years, with at least 30 days' written notice and an additional fee of $400.

The conversion option is a form of refinancing, but it is easier and cheaper because qualifying information has already been submitted and the costs of conversion generally are lower than the costs of a traditional refinancing.

Although ARM programs are now more homogeneous and better understood by home buyers, potential borrowers should consider a few important variables when shopping for an ARM:

-Loan type. An adjustable-rate loan is pegged to an index, usually the one-year Treasury bill yield, or to the cost of funds at savings institutions. While most lenders list their one-year arm, remember that they usually offer three-year and five-year adjustable loans as well.

-Margin. The margin is the amount added to the index to make the adjusted rate. This is much more important than the initial "teaser" rate, which usually ends with the first adjustment, if not before.

For instance, say that in August 1986, you took out a one-year ARM pegged to the one-year Treasury bill, with an initial rate of 7.50 percent and a margin of 2.5 percent. At the moment, the one-year T-bill is 6.85 percent, so if your mortgage is adjusted now, the bank will add that 2.5 percent margin, for a new rate of 9.35 percent.

Eye Screening Detects Ailments

A total of 85 elderly Illinois residents have been examined and treated for a potentially blinding eye disease related to diabetes in a public service program sponsored by the state's eye physicians and surgeons.

In addition, the program has uncovered more than 1,692 cases of cataracts, 164 cases of glaucoma, and 360 cases of macular degeneration—serious eye diseases that in many cases can lead to blindness.

The project is designed to bring needed medical eye care and information to the nation's disadvantaged elderly.

Since it started in March 1986, more than 8,401 Illinois residents have called the toll-free Helpline 1-800-222-EYES (3937) of the National Eye Care Project, sponsored by the Foundation of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and the Illinois Association of Ophthalmology.

Nationwide, more than 185,000 people have dialed the toll-free Helpline.

Diabetic retinopathy is one of the most treatable eye diseases, yet it often progresses to blindness because many people with diabetes fail to seek medical eye care, according to the American Academy of Ophthalmology.

The disease is the leading cause of new blindness in the U.S. It can develop in people who have diabetes mellitus, a common metabolic disease which causes changes in blood vessels throughout the body, including those in the eye.

Ophthalmologists estimate that early diagnosis and treatment can reduce the risk of severe visual loss from diabetes by 50 percent or more.

About 60 percent of people who have diabetes for 15 years or more suffer some blood vessel damage in their eyes, making the elderly especially vulnerable to the eye disease.

"Laser therapy has been particularly effective in preventing irreversible loss of vision," said Bernard Gawne, Jr., MD, president of the Illinois Association of Ophthalmology.

People with diabetes should have periodic medical eye examinations to find out if they have sight-threatening problems, he said.

"The elderly often feel that nothing can be done to prevent blindness, or they lack the financial resources to seek needed treatment. We're working to remove these obstacles," said Dr. Gawne.

He pointed out that 34 percent of Helpline patients had never had an eye exam until they called the toll-free number.

By calling Helpline, U.S. citizens or legal residents 65 and over who do not already have access to an eye physician are eligible to receive services.

Volunteer ophthalmologists treat program participants at no out-of-pocket cost, and will accept Medicare assignment or insurance coverage as payment in full (for this project only).

For the truly needy with no Medicare coverage, care is offered without charge. Information on eye diseases affecting the elderly is sent to all interested callers.

Many people with diabetes experience very mild changes in their vision. In others, however, the vascular changes lead to leakage of fluid into the retina or growth of abnormal blood vessels in the front of the eye.

When scarred, the retina, the delicate tissue in the back of the eye, sends a blurred image to the brain.

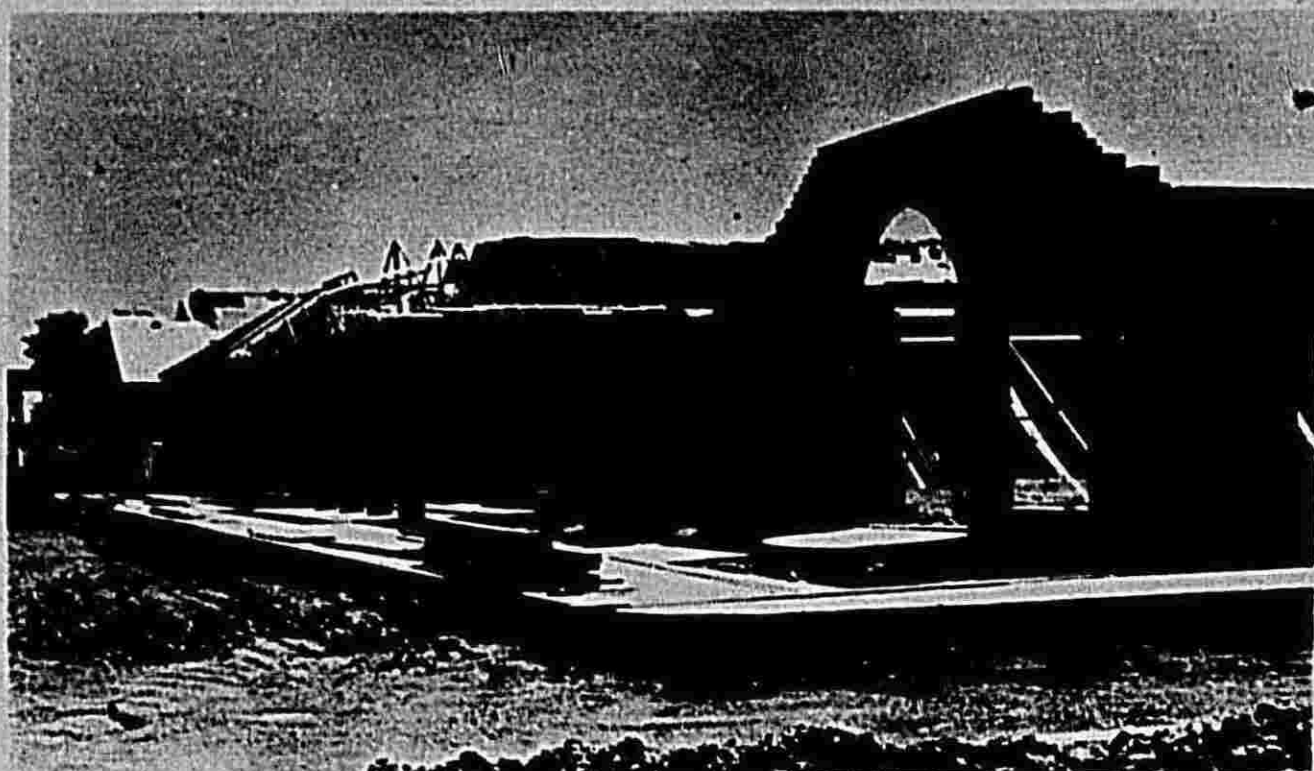

Depending on the type of diabetic retinopathy involved, two forms of treatment may prevent serious visual loss: The powerful light beam of a laser can be used to stop leaking blood vessels, reduce abnormal blood vessel growth and seal the retina securely to the back of the eye.

No incision is necessary with the laser procedure, which can be done in the ophthalmologist's office with minimal discomfort to the patient.

A surgical technique, vitrectomy, is also effective in improving sight by removing the blood-filled vitreous, the normally clear gel-like substance in the center of the eye, and replacing it with an artificial solution.

Through the Eye Care Project, ophthalmologists work with local hospitals to make hospital care available at no cost for those who need it. Hospital charges, eyeglasses and prescription drugs are not paid through the program.

The National Eye Care Project in open weekdays, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., except in Alaska (8 a.m. to 4 p.m.) and Hawaii (8 a.m. to 2 p.m.). The helpline number is 1-800-222-EYES (3937).

Victory Outreach Aids With Medicare

Victory Health Outreach Center is pleased to announce a new monthly service for senior citizens.

Victory knows how difficult Medicare forms can be; they sometimes are very confusing to fill out. Now there is supplemental insurance, that's another form to fill out.

On Aug. 17 from 8 a.m. to noon and the third Monday of every month thereafter, Victory Health Outreach Center (VHOC) will have a Victory Memorial Hospital Medicare Counselor available to help people put those forms in order.

All they need to do is call (312) 356-5900 and let Victory know they would like to see the counselor. When they come to VHOC, they should have their paperwork together along with identification cards for Medicare and any other insurance information.

Victory offers the Senior Passport program, which may also help deal with Medicare and its paperwork. If a person is a Chicago area resident, age 65 or more, enrolled in Medicare Parts A and B, and have an acceptable supplemental insurance policy, they may never have to pay a medically necessary in-patient Victory Memorial Hospital bill again.

It's all part of the Senior Passport coverage. The Medicare counselor will answer any questions about this new program too.

For more information about this service or to make an appointment to see the counselor, call (312) 356-5900.

Completes Course

Sgt. William Alwardt, son of Herbert and Mary Lou

Alwardt of Lake Villa, has completed a U.S. Army primary leadership course, in which students receive first-line supervisory training in a technical or administrative capacity.

Graduates

Lake Villa residents Valery Miller and Leslie Stollenwerk received undergraduate degrees from Bradley University, Peoria, during spring commencement ceremonies.

Twp. Gives $5,000 To Parks, Rec Dept.

After conducting routine business at the Antioch Twp. Board meeting this month, the board voted to give the Village of Antioch Recreation and Parks Depts. $5,000.

This was the cause of controversy earlier this year when a survey by the village showed that residents of the township took advantage of the parks programs more frequently than village residents.

Antioch Mayor Ray Toft commented that while in past years the township gave parks and recreation as much as $10,000 a year, in the last few years they have given no money or labor.

Without the $5,000 from the township, the village may have had to charge township residents the same fees that people living outside of the village and township pay.

Principal Invites Parents To Lunch, Talk At ACHS

Parents of Antioch High school students are asked to set aside a Thursday during the school year for a visit to the high school. The Principal's Pow Wow, instituted in 1978, will be continued for its 10th year.

The program consists of a luncheon, a tour of the building, visiting classes in operation, and opportunity to ask any questions concerning the school or its operation.

Freshman parents will be invited to attend, and any other parents or taxpayers in the district are welcome. Parents of freshmen will be invited in alphabetical order, about 12 per week.

Any upperclass parent who would like to attend can call the principal's secretary, Mrs. Stahmer, at (312)395-1421, ext. 231, and they will also be extended an invitation.

This program has been well-received by over 2,000 parents who attended. Come to school and see what is really going on.

Calling For Shots For Students

Due to the epidemic proportion of the mumps outbreak this past year in Illinois, there is a new requirement for all children effective for the 1987-88 school year. All students enrolling in Antioch Community High School must be immunized against mumps or present a statement from a physician that he or she has had the mumps.

Only those immunized at 12 months of age or older are considered immune. Any child receiving the vaccine earlier than 12 months, even by one day, is not considered in compliance by the state.

If a child was immunized earlier than 12 months, parents must contact their family physician, who may wish to readminister the vaccine or may consider it unnecessary.

The school will need a statement from the physician if he feels re-immunization is not recommended. All physical statements or re-immunization dates should be presented on or before registration.

Rain Annoys But Doesn't Destroy

by CHARLES JOHNSTON

Two things saved the Lakeland area from massive flooding last week: many communities had completed drainage projects this summer and the summer was unusually dry.

In spite of over six inches of rain in many parts of the Lakeland area, every community was high and dry. Only Fox Lake reported any flooding with nearly three feet of water on the Rte. 12 underpass near the appropriately named Waterfall Restaurant.

Areas of Gurnee, Round Lake, Lake Villa and Mundelein which suffered severe flooding last fall reported no serious problems this year.

All have been working on drainage projects during the summer.

Last year's flood got severe more quickly because the ground was already near the saturation point when the rains started. But this year many communities had limited the use of water during the exceptionally dry period. So, like a sponge, the ground was ready to suck up six inches or more of rain without creating problems.

It wasn't quite as easy in southern parts of the county which received over nine inches of rain, leading to worse flooding than last year. But none of the communities affected was in the Lakeland area.

Alano Club Opens This Saturday

The Round Lake Area Alano Club, 1631 Wood St., Round Lake Beach, will hold the grand opening of its new facility in Round Lake on Saturday, Aug. 22. The facility is located in the business center on Cedar Lake Rd. just north of the Round Lake Area Library.

According to Bud Cavender, who spearheaded the effort to get the facility put together, Alano is a self-help support group for people who were formerly substance abusers. The club is open to members 24 hours a day and is supported entirely by membership fees and donations.

People who join may come in any time for coffee, rolls or to relax. Besides the open atmosphere, many planned activities are set up for members each week.

The idea behind the club is that people who have had a problem with substance abuse and are committed to staying on the wagon are the best people to help each other.

Cavender says that having the club open will be a real asset. "Many people who have recovered were used to going out at night. With the club open, if they feel the urge to go out, they have a place they can go where there is no pressure to drink - at least not anything harder than lemonade," he said. "They also will be together with people who understand where they have been and what they're going through."

Cavender invited people from throughout the community to come and join in celebrating the opening.

CUB Foods Pays Competitive Wage

In an article which appeared Aug. 6, it was reported that one of the ways in which CUB Foods is able to offer low prices is by paying lower wages than union stores. That was incorrect.

Welton Management Services is developing the CUB Food Store in Round Lake and owns the CUB Store in Mundelein.

Richard Welton, president of the company, said, "Our employees receive pay and benefits comparable to other stores without having to pay dues. Just as important, our employees are able to communicate directly with owners and managers. We don't have the cumbersome bureaucracy between us as is often the case in other companies.

"We offer lower prices through efficiencies, not lower wages. Because of store layout, methods of stocking, buying practices and other refinements, we are able to get more product to more people faster and with less handling. These savings are passed on to the consumer.

"We are proud of our employees and of the fine relationship we have with them. We reward their work fairly and do not want anyone to think otherwise!"

Lakeland Newspapers regrets the error.

If you're searching for a new house, a smart place to start might be about, oh, six inches higher up in this ad. That's where you'll find a picture of the Good Cents Home sign. It's worth remembering. It means any house behind it has been certified energy-efficient. It means extra insulation in the ceiling, windows, and walls. Better insulation from top to bottom. (Sometimes, even below bottom. Basement walls are insulated, too.)

Plus, it means you'll use 30% less energy to heat and cool your home. And can expect a much higher resale value when you sell it. So, if you're looking for a new house, do the sensible thing. Start looking for a new sign. The Good Cents Home sign.

Action Can Be Taken To Save On Car Repairs

by GARY S. MEYERS

A decade ago, it wasn't uncommon for an American automobile owner to drop a car off at the corner service station and "trust" the mechanic to make the necessary repairs.

However, the soaring cost of automobile repairs—especially at new car dealers—makes it necessary for today's motorists to be vigilant when they visit a mechanic.

Joseph Innes, car-use director for the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration in Washington, D.C., warned that some high-powered dealer service managers tend to pad bills and overlook customer needs.

"In recent years, slumping U.S. car sales have put pressure on dealers to widen repair shop profit margins," Innes said.

"More complicated cars are not helping either," Innes said. "Many shops do not know how to fix plastic parts or solid-state electronics. They subcontract the work, then add on their own profit."

"Fifteen years ago, auto repair shops placed one-third of the bill on labor, but today it usually is two-thirds of the bill," said James Baumhart, executive vice president of the Better Business Bureau of Chicago.

However, mechanics' wages have not risen that fast. Nationwide, the average auto mechanic earns about $20 per hour. Yet dealers in major cities charge $40 per hour, and even small-town dealers charge $25.

"Shops use flat-rate manuals to figure labor charges," said Innes. "The costs are based on expected time for particular repairs. But the job often is done in much less time by the lowest-rated mechanic in the shop."

Increased prices for auto parts are also blamed for higher repair costs.

Meanwhile, the insurance industry is putting pressure on car manufacturers to make accident repairs cheaper, Innes said.

However, auto mechanics claim that expensive new equipment, such as frame straighteners or tools needed to repair front-wheel drive vehicles, is boosting their capital costs, Innes said.

"And dealers say that warranty and recall repairs are forcing them to do a lot of costly work for nothing," he said.

So what advice do the experts have for the American motorist who's hoping for a fair shake on auto repairs? Here are some suggestions:

-If you own a vehicle that isn't covered by warranty, contact the Better Business Bureau to help find a respected garage run by an independent mechanic or repair organization. The local chapter of the American Automobile Assn. also gives information on reputable shops.

"Generally, independent mechanics have a better reputation with the public, especially for major repairs," Innes said.

-If you own a new car that's under warranty, repair work must be done by an authorized franchised dealership. If an independent does the work, the new car's warranty may be voided. But it can pay to consult an independent and have him write out exactly what the car needs. The $25 to $35 inspection charge may save hundreds of dollars.

-Routine repairs. Shops run by Sears, J.C. Penney and K Mart often do routine maintenance quickly, without bill padding. Use them for this work and leave the complicated repairs for the independent mechanic or dealer.

-Padded bills. If the dealer pads your bill or botches the job, don't hesitate to complain directly to the car maker. Other protests should start at ground level. Contact the local Better Business Bureau, state consumer fraud office and newspaper action-line columnists.

Other agencies that take consumer complaints include the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, the Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Justice.

-Avoid extended warranty contracts. Studies show that warranty contracts are expensive and have hidden limits. Labor costs may not be adequately covered. A plan may require you to pay first and be reimbursed later, and it may not cover repairs if you move.

-Get the estimate in writing. One way to help control bill padding is to list specific repairs ahead of time and give the checklist to the service manager. Don't forget to keep a copy for yourself.

To make doubly sure that nothing is done without your permission, Baumhart recommends consumers ask the service manager to write the following on the repair order: "Make no repairs or replacements without owner's permission."

-Do preventive maintenance. Follow the owner's manual procedures to keep your car in good repair. If you're buying a used car, make sure it has a good repair and maintenance record. Be sure to ask for the actual maintenance record.

-Learn to repair your car. Adult education courses are now offered at many high schools and junior colleges. A car owner can at least learn to do preventive maintenance, and maybe even a tune-up.

Ex-Super Bowler Cabrial Awaits Challenge As Coach

by STEVE PETERSON
Sports Editor

Brian Cabrial, for the first time in 20 years, is not spending the summer hitting blocking sleds, running laps, or in general putting his body through the physical pounding necessary to make a football team - high school, college or pro.

Instead, Cabrial, a former Chicago Bear, will be spending the next four months helping to shape a new football program at Purdue University in West Lafayette, Ind.

"Sure, I'll miss it. Football has been part of my life since I was in grade school. But I won't miss the pounding that the body takes. You start to think you are indestructible but it catches up with you," Cabrial said.

Cabrial, now the ex-football player, brought a different message to Gurnee other than x's and o's. Appearing at a Sunrise Worship service which featured Gurnee Community Church, Bethel Lutheran Church and the Village Church of Gurnee, talked of the importance of God and country at the service held at Viking Junior High.

"People are surprised when they hear a football player talking at a church service. All they hear about pro football players is the drug problems and the bad things the players say. There are an awful lot of players with good things to say," Cabrial said.

"I thank God for my freedom and the opportunity to perform," Cabrial told the crowd. He also said he did not take the national anthem lightly when during his professional football career.

Cabrial said he became active in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes organization while he was playing under Bill Mallory at the University of Colorado. He played in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl for Colorado in 1975.

After graduation, Cabrial was drafted by the Atlanta Falcons, where he started his rookie season. He was later traded to the Baltimore Colts and the Green Bay Packers before joining the Bears in 1981.

Like most Bears who played on the Super Bowl championship team of 1985 (Cabrial wears his Super Bowl ring), he cited that year as his best yet but for different reasons than one might expect.

"I was injured in the first game and was placed on injured reserve. Just as all the hoopla was starting, I was sitting on the bench. After knee surgery, I was in (coach) Mike Ditka's office about every week asking if I could be reinstated. I finally was put back on the roster for the NFC championship game against Los Angeles and got to play in the Super Bowl," Cabrial said.

Cabrial was special teams' captain in the 46-10 win over New England in New Orleans.

Last year, he again spent a season on injured reserve and decided to go into coaching for the fall of 1987.

Cabrial said his new position with the Boiler-makers became possible when defensive Bears defensive assistant Dave McGinnis learned Cabrial wished to enter coaching. McGinnis talked to Akers' defensive coordinator, Phil Bennett and Cabrial was on his way to the Indiana school.

He said his playing experience, just one year removed, should help his relationship with Purdue players.

"I think I can offer them a lot more than x's and o's. Their goal is to make it in professional football but very few people make it," Cabrial said.

Cabrial was one that did but now is looking forward to the next phase of his football career.

District Qualifying Team

Antioch little league girls softball team competed in Dist. 16 play last week. Elgin topped Antioch 11-0 in first game of double elimination tourney. Team is coached by Ron Horton and managed by Jim LaFonaine.

Lakeland Area Coaches Discuss Weighty Issue

by DAN O'SHEA

To some Lakeland area football coaches, weightlifting is the biggest thing to come along since the two-point conversion.

Round Lake High School coach Mike Dunn said that he is a firm believer in having a good weightlifting program.

"I think we probably have one of the finest weight rooms and one of the best programs in the area. The program is as good as any health club's, and the weight room is immaculate.

Dunn said that Round Lake has a regular strength and conditioning coach, Rob Rummel, that runs the program. "He runs a great program and has some really good motivational devices," Dunn said of Rummel. He also said that Rummel has run weightlifting programs at many other schools.

There is also a weightlifting club at Round Lake, according to Dunn, and some lifters compete at the Johnsbury Weightlifting Contest every year. According to Dunn the contest involves between 10 and 15 area schools. Round Lake lifters have won the contest the past two years.

Dunn said that Rummel has the weight room at Round Lake open from 5:30 a.m. to 8 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings. Dunn himself supervises the program on Monday and Wednesday nights. He also said that there is usually a pretty good turnout of 20-25 lifters.

When school is in at Round Lake, lifters can lift during the last hour of the school day, as well as coaches.

The weight room at Grant High School is open Monday,

Wednesday, and Friday in the morning and Monday through Thursday in the evening, according to Grant coach Mike Rogowski.

Rogowski said that Grant's weightlifting program has flourished in recent years. Grant has over $1200 worth of dumbbells and almost 100 weight plates, as well as several bars of different sizes.

Rogowski also said that there are several players on the football team who weigh only 170 or 180 pounds, but can bench press 250 pounds or more.

He said, "It's come a long way and it's a good program." With Grant finishing last year's Northwest Suburban football conference campaign with a perfect 9-0 record before being eliminated in the playoffs, who's going to argue.

Antioch's Wapon Prepares For 10th Football Campaign

by STEVE PETERSON
Sports Editor

Antioch High School football coach Steve Wapon's career started with a simple suggestion from a high school mentor.

"It all went back to high school and I had a coach, way back, Bob Slingerland, and we got to talking one day. He said, 'why don't you coach it for a living, & I said, wow. That set it off as far as what I wanted to do. From that part on I was a better student because I knew where I wanted to go,' Wapon said.

This football season will mark Wapon said there all nine have been memorable. Wapon brings an enviable 58-33 career record into the end of his first decade at the helm of the Sequoia program - a 63.7 percent winning percentage. More importantly, that includes four playoff appearances - the latest being in 1985. In 1979, the team advanced to the final four as well as three years later when the Sequoia lost in the final 41 seconds to Robeson. Another notable season was 1983 when Antioch was unbeaten in the North Suburban Conference - the first year for ACHS in the league.

All through the years - from an 0-6 start in 1978 to a final four playoff appearance a year later to last year's 3-6 record, there has been one underlining theme in Wapon's stay at Antioch: cooperation.

"The staff, administration and parents have all been cooperative. That's been something that's always been here. We've had tremendous support from the parents and the group Football Mothers. They're very involved and supportive. In the Soldier's Field year we had 34 or 35 busloads," Wapon said.

Wapon came to ACHS in 1967 after a stint as a graduate assistant at the University of Arizona. He was hired to help former ACHS head coach Roy Nelson, someone whose influences carry through to the program some 20 years later.

"Roy was a people person. He had a tremendous interest in people and had respect for the people who played here. He taught me that the most important thing was the way you treat others," Wapon said of Nelson.

When Wapon was a young assistant, football was in the midst of "Win At All Costs" era of Vince Lombardi, Woody Hayes style of coaching. That style of yelling and threatening players is all but gone now, according to Wapon.

"I can't be a Vice Lombardi because I'm not. I find that you have to give young people some motivation. Coaching is teaching. When we'll have to holler, we'll holler, but you like to strive for keeping things positive," Wapon said.

Wins and losses may decide a coaches' fate, but they are not the sole determining factor of a good season.

"The thing I look for is did we reach our potential. I don't have any qualms if we lose to a team that is just plain better than us up and down the line," Wapon said.

Wapon himself also has changed.

"With experience, you learn to take things in stride. In the last decade, Wapon has watched the demise of the three-sport athlete. Now, it is becoming rare for a football player to play basketball or baseball.

"The biggest thing is that football has grown to a year-round sport. You have to have a competitive weight training program, be in a passing league if you are going to pass, and be better organized now. The wrestler, wrestles free-style to get ready for the next year. The track people are running summer meets. The basketball players are in summer leagues. There's more demand on the athletes," the coach said.

Along with the three-sport athlete, gone also are the days of a father of a player standing up on the top of a press box trying to maneuver a bulky movie camera. Portable cameras and videotape have replaced that.

"I think the change from film to videotape has really been a big difference. We used to go to a show in McHenry and go to a show and we would be sitting there about midnight waiting for the film to come back from the Chicago processing store. The videotape is great because after a game you can come back and put the videotape right on," Wapon said.

The assistant principal at Antioch is by no means limited his coaching experience to football. He assisted wrestling coach Ted DeRousse for 13 years and took the helm of the Sequoia softball program for four. His finishes included a Sweet Sixteen softball team.

This summer, Wapon could be seen around the fringes of Antioch area golf courses - chasing that elusive little white ball which ended in the woods.

"I've just played my first summer of golf. I spend a lot of time in the woods looking for golf balls but I enjoy the game. There's no telephones out there is really a great change. I want to learn more about the game and get better at it," Wapon said.

League Openings

Dug Out Park in Trevor, Wis. is now accepting entries for its 1987 Fall Leagues.

There are league openings for 12-inch softball and volleyball. Leagues are being scheduled for Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays.

For volleyball there are mens and co-ed teams in the fall leagues. League play will begin the end of August.

For more information call Tom Furlan at (414) 862-9936 or (312) 395-5788. The park is located on Hwy. 83 two miles north of the Illinois/Wisconsin state line.

Football Practice Begins For Lakeland Area Teams

Will Grant High go through the football season undefeated again?

Will Warren continue its momentum from the second half of last year and make a second straight playoff appearance?

Will Carmel rack up a second straight winning season?

Will Round Lake challenge for the Northwest Suburban Conference title?

Will Johnsbury get over the 4-5 hump and qualify for the post-season playoffs?

Those questions and more are just beginning to be answered as Lakeland area prep football players reported for first day of practice Aug. 17. The sounds of coaches' whistles, players hitting blocking sleds and sights of water boys bringing water to players prespiring in the sultry summer sun have returned to area high schools.

Players practiced for three days without pads before serious practice started Aug. 20 for preparation for season openers Sept. 4 and 5.

"We use the first week of practice to get players in shape," Mundelein coach

Gary Heifner said.

Heifner, in his 10th year at Mundelein, is one of a trio of area coaches completing their first decade of head coaching. Fred Lofredo at Wauconda and Steve Wapon at Antioch are also entering their 10th year at the helm of their respective schools.

Hattendorf Wins Tennis Title

Gary Hattendorf came away with all the first-place trophy in the Lakeland Newspapers-Coke-Penn tennis series Saturday.

Rain interrupted Hattendorf's championship match against Don Korjenek, but Hattendorf was declared the winner when Korjenek forfeited. Hattendorf won the first set 6-2 and was up 3-0 in the second set when the rains came.

In the women's bracket, Krista Schrech topped Lisa Ann Ree for the title 6-0, 6-1.

Hattendorf, who won the Vernon Hills stop on the summer-long tour, started the championship series at Waukegan beat Dave Buska 6-2, 7-5. Hattendorf then beat Jerry Spillman to advance to the title round.

Korjenek beat Dave Buska 6-4, 6-2 in the semi-final round.

Bill- Videos Great Alternative For Going Out To Movies

The summer's almost over and as far as movies are concerned, all the major summer releases are out. We're left with the prospect of paying $5.50 to go see something like 'Psycho Surfing Turtles, part 3.' The solution? Either do something besides watch a movie (nutty idea, isn't it?) or visit the local video store.

Good idea! But what if it turns out that all 27 copies of 'Top Gun' are out for the night already? Well, in many of the numerous area video stores it is possible to find movies other than the hot mainstream titles.

Here are some suggestions for movies that go undeservedly unnoticed.

FIRE WITH FIRE: The story of an impossible romance between an 'honor camp' inmate and a student in a Catholic girls school, it stars the beautiful and talented Virginia Madsen (who was also very appealing in 'Creator', with Peter O'Toole) and relative unknown Craig Schoeffler. The story works, because they come across as likable people who were simply dealt a bad hand in life. Together they find the courage to fight for control of their own destiny in this tense adventure.

JONATHAN LIVINGSTON SEAGULL: Nearly every critic in the known universe blasted it as the worst atrocity since the black plague. It does not deserve such merciless beatings. This is a very faithful adaptation of Richard Bach's famous novel, beautifully photographed and enriched by Neil Diamond's award-winning soundtrack. Maybe it was hard for people to take because it was so unusual there are no humans in the film, only seagulls. Ignore the critics and judge it for yourself. It may help your spirit soar to new heights.

NIGHT OF THE COMET: Released during the Halley's Comet craze, this satirical science fiction adventure is surprisingly entertaining. After a comet wipes out most of the world, 2 teenage sisters, appealingly played by Catherine Mary Stewart and Kelly Maroney, fend off other survivors who want to capture the girls for their own evil purposes. It really is better than it sounds. The girls characters are strong and well-developed (Stewart's is similar to Sigourney Weaver's role in 'Aliens') and the film blends humor and suspense very well. (To be continued.)

Matthew- Video Movies Miss The 'Big Picture'

I have this friend who hates going out to the movies. I recently took a moment to talk with him about this. "I hate going to the movies. First you have to find a movie playing somewhere that's worth seeing. Next, you have to get the family together (no small trick these days) and head out. If it's a popular film, you'll have to wait in line. When you finally buy your tickets you feel as if you have just been robbed except you can't turn to a crisis center or the police for help. Now the fun really starts. In the theater the price of a soft drink and a small bag of popcorn will often exceed the menu price of a downtown restaurant. Tip included. When you do finally sit down, you have to find a seat that hasn't been slashed or doesn't have spilled Pepsi or chewed Bubble-Yum all over it. The floor beneath your feet is hopeless. Often, its reminiscent of the floor of the baboon cage at the Lincoln Park Zoo. As you are trying to find a way to sit in the uncomfortable seats set in rows so close they must have been designed for the Tatoo look-alike reunion, some woman with a bee hive for hair will usually pick that very seat in front of you to sit in. And if that isn't enough, her friend will invariably be some loud mouthed frustrated film writer (or at least film shouter) who will constantly keep the entire audience aware of any changes he would have made to the movie we are trying to watch. He usually, by the way, suffers from a chronic cough of unknown origin (now do you remember him?). Between his coughing and his friends hairdo, you finally get to view some of the picture that is being shown on one of the curtains off to the side of the main dirty screen. That is fortunate since the overpaid film projector technician has thoughtfully cleaned the out of focus lens with his potato chip eating hand. And you know the worst part of all? When you do finally see the movie that has been hyped for three weeks on television and in the newspapers, it stinks. That's the moment when I tell the wife we have to drive over to the Mart after the movie, break down and finally buy one of those video recorders. I don't need this going out to the movies. Am I right, or what?"

I'm just glad I didn't ask him if he enjoyed going out to see a ball game.

Schedule Auditions

Waukegan Community Players announces auditions for their first show of the 1987-88 season, the mystery drama "Rehearsal For Murder."

Director Rich Pope said all parts are open and he will be casting six male roles, ages 20's and up and five female roles. The one male lead, Alex Dennison, should be in his late 20's, early 30's and the female lead, Monica Welles will be cast in the same age range.

Audition dates are Sunday, Aug. 30 at 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. and Aug. 31, Sept. 1 at 7 p.m., at Rosenwald Cottage, Waukegan.

This show is rich in characterization and offers actors a chance to fool and baffle the audience. Come on out and work with fun people on a fun project. Play dates are Oct. 15-18 at the Melba Wixom Auditorium.

Dancer North Specializes In Pre-School With Program

Dancer North in Libertyville has extended its pre-school program for 1987 to include specialized classes in a progressing schedule for the very young.

Music and Movement is a half-hour class designed for the three-year-old and will include special exercises, exposure to music, dance videos, stories and rhythm games.

Creative Ballet, a 45 minute class for four-year-olds, presents ballet barre work teamed with the French terminology geared particularly for this age group. Also included are ballet stories, coordination exercises, pantomime and creative dance.

Pre-Ballet for kindergartners, also a 45 minute class, prepares the child for the beginnings of Classical Ballet while still including an emphasis on creativity and an appreciation of the art of dance.

Dancer North, over the past 13 years, has developed its pre-school program with an amazing success rate, according to Cheri Lindell, the school's director.

Students who have started their instruction in this program have gone on to become much sought-after pre-professionals in the Chicago area.

Instructors for these classes are Donna M. Pedersen, a bachelor of fine arts graduate from Barat College who danced professionally as a soloist with Heritage Dance Theatre for five years. She has been on the teaching staff of Dancer North since 1982.

Linda Taylor is a bachelor of fine arts graduate from Indiana University, also a former professional dancer, who has nine years of teaching experience in Connecticut and at Indiana University.

The fall session at Dancer North begins on Sept. 8. For information on these and other classes or to receive a free brochure, call (312) 367-7970.

Horse Fanciers Can See Why Lipizzans Leap

After witnessing the breathtaking leaps and ballet-like precision of the magnificent Tempel Lipizzans in performance at their countryside home in Wadsworth, guests are invited to visit the training center's stables for a special "behind-the-scenes" look at some of the world's most famous horses. Stable tours follow each Wednesday (10:30 a.m.) and Sunday (1 p.m.) performance through the end of September.

Tempel Farms' East Good Luck Show Stable is home to the performing stars of the world's largest privately owned herd of Lipizzans.

Housed in meticulously maintained mahogany stalls, the 'dancing' stallions are so gentle that visitors can often get close enough to stroke their noses and offer them carrots or apples.

Guests are privy to a flurry of post-performance activity as grooms wash and rub down the equine stars, store the white deerskin show saddles and polish ornate brass bridles. Riders and farm staff are always available to chat with visitors and answer any questions.

Tempel Farms is the only place in the world, outside the famed Spanish Riding School in Vienna, where rare Lipizzan stallions perform the majestic promenades of classical dressage as they did for the crowded heads of Europe in the 16th century.

Performance highlights include Airs Above the Ground, a spectacular display of amazing leaps and lifts recreating strenuous medieval calvary maneuvers, and the School Quadrille, or "Ballet of the White Stallions", in which four of the most highly trained horses perform dressage's most difficult exercises in perfect and beautiful unison.

Tempel Farms is located in northern Lake County, midway between Chicago and Milwaukee, west of Rte. 1-94 at exit 132, near Great America.

Due to construction on the Tri-State, an alternative route is suggested from Chicago: Take Rte. 1-94 to Rte. 41. Follow 41 north to Wadsworth Rd. Turn left.

Driving time from both Chicago and Milwaukee is just under an hour. Tickets are available at the gate. Prices are $7 for adults and $5 for children under 12. Group discounts may be arranged by calling (312) 244-5330. For additional performance information, call (312) 623-7272.

Gov. Thompson Signs Bill, Saves Duck Hunting Season

Measures designed to preserve the waterfowl hunting season in several Illinois counties, make loans available for college students attending out-of-state schools and increase the number of unit school districts eligible to form separate elementary and high school districts were among the measures signed into law by Gov. Thompson, according to Republican

Caucasus Chair Adeline Geo-

Thompson signed 14 bills approved by the General Assembly during the spring legislative session. About 1,000 bills must either be signed or vetoed by the Governor over the next two months.

The Governor exercised his veto power on one measure. Citing the budget constraints, Thompson turned down legislation providing $5,000 annual pay raises for 57 regional school superintendents and 67 assistant school superintendents. The Governor estimated the cost of the raises at $3 million this year and $5.5 million next year.

According to Sen. Geo. Karis, the Governor's signing of SB 924 essentially saved the duck hunting season in nine Illinois counties.

What Makes Lipizzans Tick

Visit to training center's stables at countryside home of world famous Lipizzan horses at Tempel Farms is offered each Wednesday after show at 10:30 a.m. and Sunday at 1:30 p.m.

He's At Home Whether In Front Or Backstage

by GLORIA DAVIS

Tom Hausman's name has become synonymous with good direction and acting performance in Lake and Kenosha County theatrical circles.

His expert dramatic touch has been felt almost any place in the area where the smell of greasepaint and the glow of stagelights is present.

This high school English teacher began his local theatrical career 23 years ago when he took on Wilmot High School's drama department along with his other duties.

While directing the fall dramas and the spring musicals at the high school, Hausman got the itch to do something in front of the footlights himself so he tried out for part in "Curious Savage" at the Gaslight Players in Twin Lakes and began a part-time career that has lasted almost a quarter of a century.

He skipped over to the PM&L Theater in Antioch, when moved there, for a role in a musical playing Huckleby in "The Fantastics," and that theater group was stuck with him for the next 16 years.

Hausman has spent 50 percent of those years directing and the other 50 percent performing with a lot of backstage work thrown in, besides serving as president of the group.

He has received almost every award that PM&L has to offer from best director, best show, best leading actor, best supporting actor, best stage design and even best costume designer.

He's just as much at home welding a hammer and paint brush backstage as he is emoting upper stage left, and though he isn't into sewing, his costume designs and ability to get someone to stitch them up, has helped make many a show more professional.

He loved directing and playing the lead in "Fiddler On The Roof" so much that he may do it again soon. His favorite dramatic roles include that of Uncle Sid in "Ah Wilderness," and the part of the King in "Lion In Winter."

He has also been with the Covent Garden Players at the Abbey in Fontana, McHenry Country Club, Woodstock Opera House, the Belfry Theater (Wisconsin summer stock) and Andre's Dinner Theater in Richmond.

This fall, Hausman is limiting his PM&L activities to just the directing of "The Nerd" in February to take over the direction of three plays at Andres, "Mary, Mary," "Opal's Husband," and a musical melodrama, "No Sooner Won Than Wed."

But none of this will interrupt his full time job as he goes into "Bye Bye Birdie" at Wilmot this spring.

Although all this means a lot of time spent away from home, Hausman's wife Jane has been busy getting here masters degree in library work.

His two daughters Jane and Amy have been busy with school activities and Jane, who is a senior is in to tennis and band, besides being a class officer.

One might think that all this theatrical activity would satisfy Hausman's creative instincts but he has just enough left to become a championship rose raiser and arranger, winning trophies at the Men's Garden Club of Waukegan, the Northeastern Ill. Rose Society, taking a third place at a recent national show hosted by the Illinois group.

So when Tom Hausman quotes Shakespeare with "A rose by any other name," he knows from whence he speaks.

TV Comedienne At CLC

Carol Leifer, frequent guest on David Letterman's 'Late Night Show', will be appearing at College of Lake County at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 2.

Lecture Series Aides In Opera Enjoyment

Learn to understand and enjoy opera through the College of Lake County's Lyric Opera Lecture Series, a series of four Wednesday evening lectures beginning Sept. 9 at the Southlake Educational Center in Highland Park.

The lectures, given by the Lyric Opera Lecture Corps, will focus on the following operas being staged by the Lyric Opera of Chicago: Satyagraha by Philip Glass, Sept. 9; L'Italiana in Algeri by Rossini, Oct. 7; Le Nozze Di Figaro by Mozart, Nov. 4; and Tosca by Puccini, Dec. 2.

Participants may register for the lecture of their choice, or sign up for all four. Cost is $8 per session or $30 for the entire series. Those who register for the series will be treated to a full backstage tour in January.

For more information, call the Southlake Educational Center, 1860 First St. at (312) 433-7884.

ROCK TRACKS

By Rob Ferrus

Following the release of the group's latest album, "No Protection," Starship has embarked on an extensive tour of the United States including such cities as Saratoga, N.Y., Pittsburgh, Atlanta, Houston and Los Angeles. "No Protection" (dangerous these days) contains Starship's third top-selling single in 18 months, "Nothing's Gonna Stop Us Now," from the film "Mannequin," as well as the new single, "It's Not Over (Til It's Over)." "Nothing's Gonna Stop Us Now" is the group's largest selling U.S. single to date as well as an international phenomenon, holding down the number-one spot in England for four weeks, in Canada for three weeks and top five status in Germany and Australia.

With tracks produced by three well-known producers — Peter Wolf (Wang Chung), Keith Olsen (Whitesnake, Fleetwood Mac) and Narada Michael Walden (Aretha Franklin, Whitney Houston) — the new album's style ranges from the rocksteady reggae of "Beat Patrol" to the emotional duet of "The Children," the electro-funk drive of "Transatlantic" to the balladry of lead vocalists Mickey Thomas on "Wings of a Lie" and Grace Slick on her own "I Don't Know Why" and "Babydon."

"I felt we had a good group that knew how to make good records," said Mickey Thomas, who came to Starship eight years ago from the Elvis Bishop Band, where he first played with current colleague Donny Baldwin. He further explained, "We needed some really great songs and it just so happened that we began to find them outside of the band." One of the first songs they heard was "We Built This City," from one-time Elton John lyricist Bernie Taupin, and Martin Page. (I always thought the Brady Bunch kids wrote that tune!) "We thought the song was weird," recalled Grace Slick. "We felt it was too goofy to be a single." Should have gone with first instincts, Grace.

2 County Depts. Shun Neighbors' Relief Pleas

Note: This is the 18th in a series of articles on building and zoning violations in Lake County.

by LARRY WITTEBERT
Neighbors are throwing up their hands and shaking their heads in the East Loon Lake area following a losing battle with the county's building and zoning and health depts..

One of them, Gloria Carrick, said that neighbors have made complaints about a ramshackle house located off Loon Dr. about a half-mile north of Grass Lake and Deep Lake Rds.

After getting no response, their attitude is "what's the sense in wasting my time and calling the building and zoning dept. because they're not going to do anything?"

Carrick, a 36-year resident of Beach View Park, said that she thinks the county issued a permit to reroof and rewire the shack.

But she added that at one time, it was condemned and "if building and zoning had checked it out, they wouldn't have issued it."

Unoccupied and with an absentee owner, the shack is located in East Loon Lake Shores. It poses a health, safety and fire hazard, according to Carrick, who said, "I don't think rats would want to live there."

She added that the county health dept. has also been unresponsive and remarked, "We could do without the building and zoning and Lake County Health Dept. They're inefficient."

In the same neighborhood, someone built a garage on an empty lot and then dug a hole, apparently to put in the foundation for a house with a basement.

Carrick estimated that the ditch sat there for seven or eight years before the person started to fill it in.

Again, neighbors complained to the building and zoning dept., but to no avail, Carrick said.

In still another case, a septic system drains into a ditch and out into a creek. "When the wind is out of the south, I get a full dose of it," she said.

But she added, "Apparently, the health dept. feels there's nothing that can be done about it."

LaCASA Offers Program To Train Volunteers

Lake County Council Against Sexual Assault (LaCASA) is now accepting applications for its Child Assault Prevention (CAP) program.

The trainees will learn about child sexual abuse and how to prevent abuse by providing information to children on how to identify and deal with potentially dangerous situations.

The workshops are taught with curriculum that does not frighten or confuse the children, but rather presents them with strategies that they can call upon in a crisis.

Successful implementation of CAP is dependent upon trained community volunteers. Upon successful completion of training, teams of three volunteer facilitators will go into elementary school classrooms and present CAP programs to parents, teachers and children in Lake County.

Training will be held at St. Lawrence Episcopal Church in Libertyville. The dates are Sept. 8 and 9 and September 15 and 16 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Because LaCASA is a non-profit agency they request a $25 donation to offset the cost of training materials.

For further information or to register for the training, call Barbara Lehrer at LaCASA, (312) 244-1187.

No Cash, Far From Home What Do You Do?
by JIM WARNKEN
President, North Star Travel
You're only half way through your vacation, out of cash, and thousands of miles from home. What now?
You could call home and ask a friend to wire you more money, but you'll find that to be very expensive. There are alternatives.
The most convenient is the new automatic teller machines which are found worldwide. That little plastic card issued by your local bank may allow you to withdraw funds from your account while vacationing far from home. If the "ATM" at the airport in Hawaii is part of the same network of ATMs of which your bank is a member, money is at your fingertips. You can obtain a list of ATMs from your bank. It's something that should be carried with while traveling.
So let's say you don't have enough left in the old bank account to cover expenses until you get home. Do you have a Visa Card? How about Master Card, or the new Discover Card? All have agreements with various ATM networks to allow for cash advances charged to your credit card.
Your Visa card can get money from 7,500 ATMs in places such as Australia, Italy, and even Hong Kong. Master Card will work in about 3,000 machines, mostly in the United States, and Discover will allow cash advances from about 5,000 of these handy little money vendors.
American Express, as most holders of this card already know, allows members to obtain travelers checks at American Express ATMs found at most airports. This card is also good at more than 7,000 international bank ATMs.
Other ways to obtain cash while traveling is by being a member of the various airline frequent flyer clubs. While this won't buy more than a dinner for two, you can cash a personal check for up to $50 at the airport ticket counter of the airline of which you are a member. They may go as high as $100 if you have a really good story!
Even if you are not a member of an airline travel club, you should be able to cash a check for about $30 at the airport ticket counter of the airline on which you are flying.
A final word about using ATMs overseas: Your money will be dispensed in local currency. The amount charged to your account in U.S. dollars will be at an exchange rate at the time the transaction is processed, not when you got the money. Also, there will be a fee of up to $2 for the service.
Even if you have no intention of using an ATM at home, it may be a good idea to sign up for an access card. You never know when or where you may need cash.

New Homes Offer Good Aesthetics

Creating common themes to integrate each room of a home is one of the biggest challenges facing interior designers.

But at Landmark Homes' Model 540A at the Homebuilders Assn. of greater Chicago's Parade of Homes, Patricia Olsen, senior designer for Jean-Lee Design, demonstrates how the skillful use of a variety of themes can harmonize a home.

Queen Anne furniture, brass and extensive woodwork are all common themes in Model 540A. Peach and blue are the dominating colors and plush wedgewood blue carpeting extends throughout the model home.

"After deciding upon my colors, I use various tones and intensities so the combinations remain exciting," said Olsen. "Blue gives the home a cool, traditional feel, and peach adds a warm, slightly contemporary touch."

Model 540A is available at Meadowridge, a community of 26 semi-custom homes located on 50 acres in Kildeer, now in its second phase.

Meadowridge offers two-story homes on one-acre lots on curvilinear streets. A choice of 18 elevations is available for 10 floor plans which range in size from 2,789 to 3,582 square feet and in price from $286,600 to $347,500. Each home features four or five bedrooms, two-and-a-half baths and three-car garages.

"In designing the home, I kept two things in mind—family and tradition," said Olsen. "By using more personal items such as portraits, books and ceramic pieces, I achieved the setting I wanted."

"Landmark focuses on family living in the architectural design, so it's important to keep that image with interior decor."

A dramatic two-story foyer opens to the living and dining areas. An L-shaped staircase, bordered by chair rails and frame-like panel moldings, accent the French blue striped patterned wallpaper rising to the ceiling.

A second-story window and brilliant brass chandelier illuminate a lofty painting.

Off the foyer, the 13-and-a-half by 14-and-a-half foot dining room maintains tradition with its oval Queen Anne dining table surrounded by six dining chairs upholstered in peach moire.

A stately Queen Anne china cabinet encases delicate china with hues of peach, blue, brown and green in a floral border.

Complementing the dining room in brass are elegant pushplates on a swinging door leading to the kitchen, brass wall sconces, candlesticks and a chandelier.

The 13-and-a-half by 22-foot formal living room flows from the foyer where a two-tone peach, blue and green fabric from a small foyer table is repeated on the sofa and balloon valances.

Two tufted chairs are placed opposite the sofa and flank a table. A peach settee is positioned within the depth of the walk-in bay window.

A lighted curio cabinet captivates decorative ornaments. An oval coffee table displays peach and white ceramic candlesticks, and an antique miniature desk is set beneath a side window.

Decorated in a masculine "fox hunt" theme, the study is joined to the living room by French doors sporting colonial brass handles.

Stained wood beams run the length of the room adding to the rustic atmosphere, with a crafted solid oak kneehole desk and coordinating executive chair becoming the focal point of the room.

A wedgewood blue leather winged-back chair with solid brass nailhead trim sits in the corner, holding throw pillows in a flame-stitched fabric.

An old world feeling is maintained with antique desk accessories including a magnifying glass on a brass stand, a candlestick lamp, a detailed brass inkwell-letter holder and an antique globe on a solid wood pedestal within reach of the desk. Tongue-in-groove built-in bookshelves flank a window behind the desk.

"I wanted the study to be the man's get-away," Olsen said. "Using darker colors mixed with old world charm, I created a room with sophistication."

A small hallway leads from the dean into the powder room and kitchen.

The 13- by 14-foot kitchen opens to an 11- by 17-foot breakfast area with a floor-to-ceiling bay window. The deep window, surrounded by fluted wood casings and rosettes, is emphasized by blue, peach and green curtains trimmed in ivory eyelet.

A center island cook top, planning desk and double-door pantry also are prominent kitchen features.

The family room, separated from the kitchen/breakfast area by an oak railing, boasts a steep vaulted ceiling with pitched skylights. A floor-to-ceiling brick fireplace and built-in wood storage bin, support a sleek mantle flanked by white-painted bookshelves.

Two sets of French doors open onto a huge wood deck from the family room. Next to the fireplace a wedgewood blue chair is accented with diminutive threads of coral, ivory and beige next to a drop-leaf end table.

A plaid sofa and loveseat in rich shades of blue, teal, mauve, peach and burgundy harmonize the room.

"The family room should make a statement about those living in the home. In the Model 540A, we designed this room for a family that loves music," Olsen said. "Seating is arranged for gathering so those in the room can easily communicate, while having a comfortable view of the fireplace."

In the 25- by 14-and-a-half-foot family room, the musical motif begins with a memorable wall arrangement above the sofa comprised of an oak framed print of an orchestra and various brass musical instruments. An oval coffee table sits in front of the sofa, and an oak end table connects the sofa and loveseat.

When entering the upstairs master bedroom through double-doors, guests enjoy a dramatic view of cathedral ceilings, a separate sitting area and extensive wainscoting.

A thick-stitched bedspread with a pattern of delicate flowers and ribbons, coordinates with balloon valances. Peach-colored walls above muted peach chair rails and panel moldings blend the furnishings.

A separate sitting area has a red and blue floral-striped chaise lounge with a brass swing lamp mounted above.

"We designed the sitting area as a woman's retreat to provide a quiet area with adequate lighting," Olsen said.

A large master bath has a rectangular step-up whirlpool tub, surrounded in white tile, which is illuminated by four recessed lights and three overlooking French windows.

A man's vanity, and a larger woman's vanity, each have shell-shaped sinks. A free-standing, frosted glass shower is situated in one corner, with a separate water closet across the room. An oversized walk-in closet separates the master bedroom and bath.

Each of the three secondary bedrooms has a walk-in closet. A hall bath features double vanities on both sides with compartmentalized toilet and tub.

All doorways, openings and windows in Meadowridge homes are bordered by five-inch wide fluted wood casings, with plinth blocks and milled rosettes at the corners.

Intricate woodwork is also evident in stair handrails carved from oak and winding down into a volute, or spiral, at the bottom of the staircase.

Landmark's newest community, Meadowridge, is located on Krueger Rd., a half-mile south of Rte. 22 (Half Day Rd.) before Cuba Rd. Hours are 10 a.m. through 6 p.m., Monday through Saturday, closed Sunday. Telephone is (312) 438-7088.

Testing Method For United Way

Charles D. Fornero, executive vice president, announced that the Lake County Board of Realtors will endorse the 1987 United Way of Lake County Campaign in the Real Estate Division to be spearheaded by George and Barbara Doyle of Poe & Poe Realtors.

This year, instead of asking for one-time donations, a new campaign method is being tested to raise the $30,000 needed for the 1987 goal.

The listing agent will be asked to donate $10 and the selling agent will be asked to donate another $10 during the campaign months of September, October and November.

The respective Realtor's office will then be asked to match the contribution with $10. Each sale would represent $40 toward the overall 1987 campaign goal.

Recognition awards will be presented in three divisions—small, medium and large offices. Also pacesetters will be recognized as those who run their campaign during the months of August, September and October.

To be continued?

When we first opened our Maternity Center—nearly three decades ago—the only people involved in the birth of a new baby were the mother, her doctor and our specialized staff. But times have changed. And since then, we've helped many newborns . . . and many new birthing options . . . come to life.

But while we continue to grow with the times by offering the latest, most up-to-date birthing plans and obstetric services available, some things will never change.

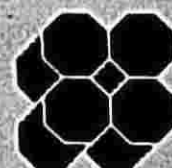

We'll always take the time to mother every baby, baby every mother . . . and pamper the rest of the family, too. We offer special classes and support programs for mothers, fathers, siblings, even grandparents—on all aspects of the birth experience.

We also have refresher courses—for the many families who come back to us again.

And again.

It's Standing Room Only For Presidential Hopeful

by AMANDA METZEL

U.S. Senator and Democratic Presidential contender Paul Simon held a public forum with Lake County constituents last week at the College of Lake County.

The town meeting, a tradition with Simon since his days in the Illinois General Assembly, attracted a standing-room-only crowd in the campus auditorium. For an hour and a half, Simon, with an easy manner and good humor, fielded questions from audience members on local, national and international concerns.

On the international level, Simon said he is skeptical of the federal government's proposed peace plan for Nicaragua. He said the U.S. plan was devised as an alternative to aid for the Contras, which it is probably not going to secure in the wake of the Iran-Contra affair.

Simon expressed disappointment at Lt. Col. Oliver North's popularity among the American people. "Sometimes we have to be careful who we make our heroes," he said, and quoted Abraham Lincoln on respect for the law.

The senator flatly opposed the Star Wars defense plan, saying it would be ineffective and prohibitive in cost. He pointed out that the Star Wars shield has been estimated to be "30 to 90 percent" effective, and that even at a 90 percent efficiency rate, 1,000 Soviet nuclear warheads could still get through.

He expressed concern that the price of the project, the costliest to date, would divert funding from education and health care, or call for a huge tax increase.

In response to charges of a high absentee record in Congress of late, Simon admitted that his attendance has been down since he began campaigning for the 1988 Democratic Presidential nomination. He said he misses out on some smaller issue votes, but will be in the Senate to vote on crucial matters.

Health care issues were brought up on several occasions. "Affording health care is a real problem," he said. Although he doesn't think the country is ready for socialized medicine, he does believe the federal government ought to assist citizens with "extraordinary" medical bills. He has co-introduced a bill for home health care for the elderly.

Simon favors more government funding of AIDS research and education. He noted that waiting lists are long at existing voluntary AIDS testing centers and cited evidence that people who know they have AIDS rarely knowingly spread it. Simon and three other senators have introduced legislation to fund more of these centers.

When asked what views on abortion he would want a Supreme Court Justice to hold, Simon replied, "I would not appoint anyone solely on one issue."

In reference to Supreme Court nominee Robert Bork, the senator said, "I will not make any final decision until I read what he has written." He said he would favor a Supreme Court Justice who is "open minded, sensitive to civil rights, civil liberties and the separation of church and state."

Simon reiterated his support of legalized abortion. "I have not hesitated to take unpopular stands," he said. "That is a decision women and their physicians have to make," he added, prompting a minor outburst from pro-life supporters in the audience.

"We're seeing people shouting at each other, when we should be listening to each other," Simon said of the controversy surrounding legalized abortion. He believes that the problem of unwanted pregnancy should be dealt with from several angles, such as increasing employment and educational opportunities and reducing the incidence of teen pregnancy.

Although the senator, with bow tie intact, didn't make any campaign speeches or promises at the meeting, his candidacy was not overlooked by the audience.

The auditorium resounded with laughter and applause when one man in the audience prefaced a question with "Mr. President..."

Health Dept. Urges Vaccination For Pets

With the summer season, more dogs and cats are running loose. The Animal/Rabies Control Program of the Lake County Health Dept. welcomes input from the community and wants to know about areas in the County that are having problems with stray animals.

Lake County residents are urged to call (312) 526-5336 or stop by the Animal Shelter in the Lakewood Forest Preserve (Rte. 176, west of Fairfield Rd., two miles east of Wauconda) to discuss animal problems in their neighborhoods. In areas of the County's jurisdiction, animal wardens provide early morning and evening patrols for stray animals. Complaints from areas covered by municipal agreements will be referred to the appropriate municipal agency.

Owners of dogs or cats should assure their pets are vaccinated against rabies. The Lake County Rabies Control Ordinance requires that all dogs and cats have a Lake County rabies tag attached to their collar at all times as proof of their vaccination status. The tags are available from the Health

Dept. and from certain municipalities upon presentation of the vaccination certificate (obtained from the veterinarian). Call (312) 360-6424 for the cost of the Rabies Tag. After the vaccination is given, pet owners are allowed 21 days to register their dog or cat.

The purpose of the tag is to provide proof of vaccination if the animal bites someone or comes into contact with a wild animal. The tag is also useful in tracing ownership if the pet is lost. The Health Dept. maintains a file of all registered dogs and cats. It is cross-referenced by the last name of the animal's owner and by the Lake County tag number.

State law and local ordinance require that animal bites be reported to the Health Dept. The 24-hour telephone number is (312) 360-6424.

THIS WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

BY SALOME

Weekly Tip: Make important phone calls.

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) Your work load has become tremendous, so ask those you trust for some help. You'll be surprised how willing they will be if you are sincere.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) Make sure you keep your word; this will insure your credibility in the future. You may feel a little run down after many summer activities, so rest up.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) If you do your best at whatever you undertake, you will have no regrets. Clear your mind and make room for important data headed your way.

Cancer (June 21-Jul 20) Those in your life who love and care for you can help ease the rough spots; don't underestimate their value to you when the going gets tough. They care.

Leo (Jul 21-Aug. 22) Don't be surprised if things are going smoothly now; you deserve it. Watch for interesting new people in your life whose ideas are different than your own.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be sure you accomplish everything with your special flair. A dashing new person is liable to come into your life soon. Romance is on the horizon.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You've been putting off your family duties, and they aren't taking kindly to that. Get yourself over to see relatives, and show them they're appreciated.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Be sure you use your clever intuition when dealing with new acquaintances. There is a tendency in you to be a little too trusting, so be careful.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Why not splurge on yourself now? Go ahead and indulge in that shopping spree. You would do well, however, not to stray too far from home.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you are feeling a little down now, rest assured it's only temporary. It's a good time to dive right into those projects you've been wanting to tackle.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) If procrastination has left you with a pile of things to do, get at them now. Once you get this off your back, take a little trip to a quiet place.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) Social engagements have you booked for a while, but be sure other practical affairs don't go undone. Rely on yourself now to get the job done well.

If you were born this week, it's in your character to be steadfast and dependable. This virtue doesn't go unnoticed; those around you are appreciative, even if they don't verbalize it. Sometimes you may feel you are too giving, but this is because you don't take well-deserved time to yourself. See if you can't correct this.

RE/MAX Sales Jump 20% In First Half of '87

With its eye on a record $3 billion in sales for 1987, RE/MAX of Northern Illinois reported a 20 percent increase in sales for the first half of 1987, compared to 1986's record levels.

According to Betty Hegner, president of RE/MAX of Northern Illinois, from Jan. 1 through June 30, RE/MAX recorded in excess of $1.8 billion in sales, an increase of more than $300 million compared to 1986 levels. The sales represented 16,897 transactions, an 11 percent increase.

"1987 will undoubtedly be another record sales year for RE/MAX of Northern Illinois, and we are expecting to exceed $3 billion in sales," Hegner said.

"The market for residential real estate is very strong, and we're confident that our sales associates will continue to perform at record levels for the remainder of the year," she said.

According to Hegner, the dollar volume for year-to-date listings was up 13.3 percent compared to 1986 levels, with volume totaling $1.373 billion on 12,174 listings, a six percent increase.

During the month of June, RE/MAX of Northern Illinois recorded $285 million in sales on 2,549 transactions. RE/MAX generated 1,779 new listings during June. Dollar volume of the new listings was $217.5 million.

Leading the RE/MAX offices in sales volume and listing volume for June was RE/MAX of Naperville, 1200 Iroquois Commons, Naperville. The office recorded $12.5 million in sales and $10.2 million in listings.

RE/MAX of Northern Illinois is a network of 80 individually owned and operated full service real estate offices. It is also part of RE/MAX International, which has more than 1,000 offices in the United States and Canada and more than 16,000 licensed agents.
